MIAMI DESIGN DISTRICT

More than twenty years ago, Miami native Craig Robins recognized the potential of the Miami Design District and started acquiring buildings in the neighborhood. His goal was to reinvigorate a forgotten part of Miami, transforming it into a unique creative community through exceptional architecture, design and experiences. This singular vision for the neighborhood has now been realized. Today the District is a vibrant community where residents and visitors enjoy amazing shopping, chef-driven restaurants, world-class museums and abundant outdoor space.

Through careful stewardship and rich cultural programming, the Design District began to attract design brands, important art collections and design installations and great dining experiences. As new buildings were erected and historic structures were transformed, design showrooms flocked to the area, led by Holly Hunt, Knoll, Poliform and others. Central to the DNA of the Miami Design District has been a program of art and design that is both stunning, culturally enriching and functional as a neighborhood.

L Catterton (then L Real Estate) joined Robins as a partner in 2011 and encouraged the luxury brands of LVMH to recognize the unique potential of the community. Centrally located in Miami and culturally at the vanguard of global creative industry, the partnership believed that those brands could locate their flagship stores in the District and showcase their complete offering in abundant spaces that could reflect their brand via both architecture and design – all north of downtown and less than 10 minutes away from South Beach in a pedestrian-friendly environment. Today, there are more than 120 flagship luxury stores in the neighborhood and cultural institutions like ICA Miami, the De La Cruz Collection and Locust Projects call the District home.

Like all true neighborhoods, the Miami Design District continues to evolve: more amazing shops, restaurants and galleries and a boutique hotel and residences are all planned.

midtownMiami

Midtown Miami offers a lively and cosmopolitan atmosphere. The neighborhood is home to a diverse mix of residents, including young professionals, artists, and families, drawn to its central location.

Boasting a prime location between Edgewater, Design District and Wynwood, Midtown has emerged as a dynamic urban hub that seamlessly blends residential, commercial, and cultural amenities.

Wynwood is an eclectic district in the urban core of Miami, Florida. It is home to art galleries, retail stores, antique shops, eclectic bars, artisanal eateries and one of the largest open-air street-art installations in the world.

Throughout the mid-to-late 1900s, Wynwood was an enclave for Caribbean immigrants and home to Miami's Garment District. Following a decade of economic exodus and depression, in the early 2000s, forward thinking developers and property owners rehabilitated neglected warehouses, shuttered factories, and other unused buildings, transforming them into the innovative businesses that are visible today. However, it is street art that helped spark Wynwood's renaissance. Since the introduction of Second Saturday Art Walk and the arrival of Art Basel (2002), the influence and relevance of the arts community in Wynwood has become undeniable. Artists from around the world have sought inspiration in the area's windowless facades and used them as canvases to showcase their work, leading to the vivid murals that adorn the district.

Today, Wynwood is recognized globally as a premier destination for art, fashion, innovation and creative enterprise. It is one of the largest and most prominent creative communities in the United States and where a new generation of creative and entrepreneurs want to live, work, eat, play and learn.
